Reports on the Economics of Heritage Conservation

A number of studies have been completed examining the cost/benefits of heritage regulation, examining the private costs of heritage regulation and quantifying the social benefits obtained. Consideration of heritage economics has embraced examination of tourism and heritage places and the concept of valuing heritage as cultural capital. Research which may inform the Inquiry includes:

- i. The Impacts of Heritage Requirements on the Financial Viability of Individual Development Proposals (NSW Division of the API for the NSW Heritage Office) at: http://www.heritage.nsw.gov.au/docs/economics_parta.pdf.
Economic analysis to assess respectively
