

MEMBERS OF THE HERITAGE COUNCIL OF NSW

Michael Collins Chair

Michael (Mike) Collins was appointed as Chair of the Heritage Council of NSW for a period of 3 years from 1 January 2002. He was previously a member of the Heritage Council for five years, three of which he served as Deputy Chair to Mrs Hazel Hawke. He has been an active member of the Council, having been a member of the State Heritage Register Committee and the Heritage Council's Strategy Committee. He has been fully involved in all of the Council's recent major heritage decisions, including Walsh Bay, the Conservatorium of Music and St Patrick's Manly.

Mike Collins has a property background, having been involved in property economics, real estate valuation, property consultancy and asset management for over 30 years, and is professionally qualified in property economics and valuation. He runs his own property advisory company, based in the Sydney CBD, providing services to the public and private sectors throughout New South Wales.

In addition to his activities in the mainstream commercial market place, Mike has long been interested and involved in the public, community and cultural dimensions of property and this shows in his involvement with the delivery of a range of important cultural and public venues in Sydney. He negotiated the NSW Government's purchase of the Darling Harbour development site and the redevelopment of Sydney's theatrical icon, the 2,000-seat Capitol Theatre. He also oversaw the refurbishment and re-opening of one of Sydney's most important heritage buildings, the Customs House, and negotiated the delivery of Sydney's most recent cultural acquisition, the 1,200-seat City Recital Hall in Angel Place.

Mike was also deeply involved in planning for the Olympics, being a member of the Government's Task Force for the master planning of the Olympic site at Homebush Bay. He was engaged in the procurement/delivery of a number of Olympic venues including the new Showground at Homebush Bay, the Olympic Stadium, the Olympic Village, the new Olympic Park Hotel, the Sydney International Shooting Centre at Cecil Park and the Olympic Beach Volleyball venue at Bondi Beach. He continues to advise the Government on its post-Olympics Homebush Bay planning and property strategies.

He has been appointed to a number of urban design juries on behalf of the City of Sydney and chaired the recent urban design and architectural competition juries for two of Sydney's largest proposed developments: Meriton's World Square site and Leighton's KENS site in the CBD.

Mike is National President of the Australian Property Institute, and is the immediate past president of the NSW Division of the Institute. The Institute has a national membership of some 7,000 professionally qualified land economists and valuers, of which approximately half are located in New South Wales.

Mary-Lynne Taylor Deputy Chair

A solicitor with experience in local government and town planning law, Mary-Lynne Taylor has worked for many city councils, including the City of Sydney Council, advising developers, architects, town planners and other professionals. Ms Taylor is a visiting lecturer in Planning Law at Sydney University, Vice-President of the NSW Division of the Royal Australian Planning Institute, and a Council member of the Urban Development Institute of Australia. She holds a Bachelor of Law and a Bachelor of Arts.

Ms Taylor is the Chair of the Heritage Council Approvals Committee.

MEMBERS

John Delaney

John Delaney has been a member of the Heritage Council since his appointment in January 2002. He is currently Chair of the Aboriginal Heritage Committee.

John has had extensive experience in Aboriginal issues at both a national and state level. From 1974 to 1992 he worked for the Aboriginal Employment, Education and Training Branch in the Commonwealth Department of Employment, Education and Training. During this time he led the national introduction of the Aboriginal Park Rangers Training Program for the National Parks and Wildlife Service.

In 1990 John was the inaugural Chairperson of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission's Sydney Regional Council. He was to be closely involved in the work of the council over the next decade, chairing the council from 1993 to 1996.

From 1996 to 1999 John was the ATSIC Health Commissioner. His national government appointments include being ATSIC's nominee to the National Health and Medical Research Council until 2002 and Chair National Research Agenda working Group into Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Research.

John is also involved in many community organisations, including: the NSW Aboriginal Prisoner and Family Support Service, Aboriginal Medical Service Redfern, Daruk Aboriginal Medical Service, Mr Druitt, Tharawal Aboriginal Corporation Campbelltown.

Professor Ross Fitzgerald

Professor Ross Fitzgerald is a member of the New South Wales Parole Board, the Administrative Decisions Tribunal, the NSW Government Expert Advisory Committee on Alcohol and Other Drugs and was appointed as a member of the Heritage Council of NSW in 1994. He is also a member of the Values Education Advisory Committee established by the federal Minister for Education, Dr Brendan Nelson.

Ross has wide experience as an academic, public administrator, writer and broadcaster and a substantial profile across many spheres of social debate. He has a professional focus on issues relating to history, heritage, the arts, the environment, administration, corrective services, alcoholism and addictions. Ross has published over 28 books, he is a documentary and feature film writer, columnist, radio presenter and reviewer.

He has a strong and enduring commitment to principles of anti-discrimination, equity, openness and accountability and to social justice, civil liberty and cultural diversity, privacy and freedom of speech.

Ross's qualifications include a PhD (Political Theory), an MA (Political Science), and a BA Hons. (History), Monash University, Victoria

Jacqui Goddard National Trust of Australia (NSW)

Jacqui Goddard trained as an architect at the University of New South Wales. She is Conservation Director of the National Trust of Australia (NSW). Jacqui has worked as an architect in both Australia and Scotland, predominantly in the fields of conservation and repair and adaptive reuse of buildings. She was a senior architect with Law & Dunbar-Nasmith Architects, Scotland, 1990-1994 before becoming a senior lecturer and postgraduate course leader in Architecture at the Robert Gordon University in Aberdeen, Scotland and specialist consultant to a number of practices until her return to Sydney in 2001. One of her research interests during that time was regional variations in traditional construction including the development of the 'sash and case' window in Scotland and the use of lime in building repair.

Jacqui teaches design, adaptive reuse and building conservation on an ad hoc basis at UTS, USyd and UNSW. Jacqui is a member of the NSW Heritage Council and that Council's Technical Advisory Group.

Associate Professor Ian Jack
Royal Australian Historical Society

Ian was first appointed as an alternate member of the Heritage Council prior to his appointment as a full member in January 2000. He is the Chair of the Heritage Council's State Heritage Register Committee and also chairs the meetings of the History Panel.

Educated at the Universities of Glasgow and London, Ian was for many years a senior member of the Department of History at the University of Sydney, where he was co-founder of Historical Archaeology. He has published extensively in the field of industrial archaeology (especially iron-making, shale-oil production and flour-mills), water-power and rural technologies, based on field-work in Australia, Britain and Portugal. He was the Australian representative on The International Committee for the Conservation of Industrial Heritage, is a professional member of ICOMOS and is an active consultant on heritage matters in regional New South Wales. He is currently President of the Royal Australian Historical Society as well as a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society in Britain.

Megan Jones

Megan Jones, Architect, is a Director of Tanner Architects and leads the Heritage Group.

She has undertaken numerous conservation management plans and was the project architect for St Patrick's College, Manly, the Sydney Electric Lighting Station, Pyrmont, the Vernon Group and Drill Master's House, UWS - Parramatta Campus, the Sydney School of Arts in Pitt Street, the Old King's School, Parramatta, the former AGL site at The Bond, Hickson, Road Millers Point and two major Macquarie era buildings: the Greenway Stables in Macquarie Street, Sydney, and the Female Orphan School at Rydalmere.

These projects have received numerous awards. The conservation and adaptation of the St Patrick's College, Manly, the Greenway Stables as part of the Sydney Conservatorium of Music and the Female Orphan School at the UWS have received UNESCO Asia Pacific Awards for heritage conservation.

Megan Jones has been member of the Heritage Council of NSW since 2002. She has provided an important role model within the building industry, showing a clear grasp of design and heritage principles and their realisation on the construction site.

Rod Leaver

Rod has 25 years experience in the property investment and funds management industry both throughout Australia and South-East Asia.

He is a co-founder and Managing Director of Ronin Partnerships Limited, a fund manager, with a primary focus on global property investment for the Australian wholesale investment market.

He was previously Executive Chairman of the Ronin Property Group an ASX listed property trust with total funds under management of $2.4 billion. Prior to this he co-founded and was Chief Executive Officer of James Fielding Group, a listed property investment company and prior was a co-founder and Executive Director of Paladin Australia Limited that, at the time of sale to Deutsche Asset Management, had property funds under management of $2.3 billion.

Rod is a member of the Heritage Council of NSW and their Maritime Archaeological Advisory Panel, a Foundation Director of the Historic Houses Trust of NSW and is a Fellow of the Australian Property Institute. He is Immediate Past-President of the NSW Division of the Property Council of Australia, a position he held for three years.

David Logan

David Logan was appointed to the Heritage Council in January 2005.

David is a Director of Godden Mackay Logan Heritage Consultants and has qualifications in architecture, heritage conservation and town planning. He has specialist skills in heritage-related masterplanning and design, CBD and other development projects and urban planning issues. His consulting work includes major projects such as Fox Studios, Hickson Road development and Prince Henry Hospital; heritage impact assessment; preparation of DCPs and conservation area studies; expert witness work and heritage training.

David is a member of the Parramatta (SEPP 65) Design Review Panel, the Architectural Advisory Committee of the National Trust of Australia (NSW), the NSW Property Council's Planning Committee, and the City of Sydney Business Forum. He is a former Vice President and National Executive Committee member of Australia ICOMOS and was a member of the Burra Charter Working Party that prepared the current version of the Burra Charter.

Sharon Sullivan AO

Sharon Sullivan has a BA (Hons) and an MA (Hons) in History. She has worked in heritage place management and land management generally for thirty years, and has been involved in the development of cultural heritage management systems in Australia. She has been Cultural Heritage Manager, then Regional Manager and Deputy Executive Director of the NSW National Parks & Wildlife Service. She has also had the roles of Executive Director of the Australian Heritage Commission and First Assistant Secretary, Australian & World Heritage Group for the Department of Environment and Heritage and Australian Government Leader of Delegation, World Heritage Committee. She is a fellow of the Australian Academy of the Humanities, a member of the Australian Institute of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Studies, and a member of the National Executive Committee of Australia ICOMOS.

She is Adjunct Professor, School of Anthropology, Archaeology and Sociology, James Cook University of North Queensland, and Adjunct Professor, School of Natural and Rural Systems Management, University of Queensland. She is a Consultant to the Australian Government, the Getty Conservation Institute, the World Monument Fund, the World Bank, and the World Heritage Committee on various aspects of cultural heritage management.

In addition she is the author of a range of publications including, jointly with Michael Pearson, Looking after Heritage Places, Melbourne University Press 1998 (second edition) which is a university textbook on heritage place conservation and management. She has done planning and teaching work with heritage site managers in Australia, USA, Cambodia, Africa and China on cultural heritage assessment management issues.

Sharon and her partner Malin run a cattle farm on the Nymboida River in northern NSW.

[Labour Council representative – to be advised]

EX-OFFICIO MEMBERS

Lisa Corbyn Department of Environment and Conservation

Lisa Corbyn is the Director General of the Department of Environment and Conservation which brought together the National Parks and Wildlife Service, Environment Protection Authority, Resource NSW and the Botanic Gardens. She is also Chief Executive of the Sydney Catchment Authority. She became a member of the Heritage Council in September 2004.

Lisa was formerly the Director General of the NSW Environment Protection Authority helping to set up that Authority in the early 1990s in her role as Deputy Director of the Ministry for the Environment. In Australia since 1983, she has worked for AWA Limited, the Water Board and the Department of Environment and Planning.

She has a Masters Degree in Public Administration and Natural Resource Management from the University of Washington in the USA, and undertook a fellowship in Environmental Economics at Princeton University.

Chris Johnson
Government Architect

Chris Johnson is General Manager of the Government Architect's Office in the Department of Commerce. He became a member of the Heritage Council in 1995.

Chris chairs the Sydney Harbour Design Review Panel, is a member of the Central Sydney Planning Committee, a Life Fellow of the RAI (NSW), Past President, NSW Chapter of the RAI, and is a winner of the RAI President's Award. Chris also chairs the Design Review Panel for the Sydney Olympic Park Authority.. He was Director for the Year of the Built Environment 2004 New South Wales Secretariat. Chris holds a Master of Architecture, a Master of the Built Environment and a Master of Cultural Heritage. He is Adjunct Professor of Architecture at the University of Sydney and at the University of Technology Sydney. He has written books and contributes to discussions on urban issues

Gary Prattley
Department of Infrastructure, Planning and Natural Resources

GARY PRATTLEY is a geographer and urban planner who has worked at local, regional, metropolitan, State and national levels in Australia and New Zealand. Since 1986, Gary has held senior executive positions in five State Governments and has been responsible for running the planning systems in Tasmania, Australian Capital Territory and Western Australia where he was Chief Executive of the Ministry for Planning in Western Australia. In May 2001 he joined Planning NSW as Executive Director, Metropolitan Planning and he now holds the position of Executive Director, Office of Major Projects, Department of Infrastructure, Planning and Natural Resources.

Gary has had a leading role in managing growth and change in the Sydney Metropolitan Area, to create sustainable development in a quality environment that meets the needs of residents, business and government, including developing a thirty year strategy for land release, to accommodate 300,000 additional people and provide $8 billion of new infrastructure.

Developing a whole of Government Strategic Plan for the Sydney Metropolitan Area to facilitate economic growth, provide for housing needs, manage new urban development, revitalize inner urban areas, improve equity in access to urban facilities and services, and improve and conserve the environment of the region is a major responsibility of the Department.

When he is not planning metropolitan Sydney, Gary retreats to his stud cattle farm near Canberra.

Reece McDougall
NSW Heritage Office

Reece McDougall is the Director of the NSW Heritage Office.

Mr McDougall has over 20 years experience in the environment and heritage fields. He has worked for the National Trust as a Senior Conservation Officer and was also the Heritage Manager for Sydney Water and Environmental Manager for AWT Insight, the commercial arm of the Sydney Water Corporation.